JOE LACOB

Co-Executive Chairman & CEO

In his role as co-executive chairman & CEO, Joe Lacob is the managing member of the Golden State Warriors' ownership group. Currently in his 11th year in this capacity, he serves on the NBA Board of Governors and is a member of the league's Planning Committee and Labor Committee.

Under Lacob's guidance, the Warriors have achieved numerous milestones, established many NBA records and enjoyed one of the most successful decades in the history of the sport. During his initial 10 years with the organization, the Warriors won three NBA championships (2015, 2017, 2018) and made five consecutive appearances in the NBA Finals (2015-2019), becoming only the second team in NBA history to do so, joining the Boston Celtics of the 1950s and 1960s. Additionally, the Warriors matched the Celtics for the best-ever record over a six-season span in league history (373-119, .758) and, with three championships over a four-year span, the Warriors joined the Celtics, Chicago Bulls and Los Angeles Lakers as the only NBA franchises to accomplish this feat. In Lacob's fifth season as owner in 2014-15, the Warriors ended a 40-year championship drought (dating back to 1975) and followed that title-winning campaign by posting the best single-season record in NBA history in 2015-16 (73-9). Additional milestones during this journey included an all-time NBA-best 24-0 start in 2015-16 and a 54-game winning streak at home, the longest in league history. From 2012-13 to 2018-19, the Warriors made seven consecutive playoff appearances for the first time in franchise history. In fact, prior to those seven seasons, the club had only made the playoffs once in the previous 18 years.

The franchise's success in recent years has also extended to the business side. In December of 2019, the Warriors were named professional sports' "Franchise of the Decade" by the Sports Business Journal (SBJ), an award that encompasses all 123 teams in the NBA, NFL, MLB and NHL. The award-winning sports business publication also bestowed "Sports Team of the Year" honors to the Warriors in 2014 and 2016 in recognition of the organization's innovative and successful business practices. This marked the first time that any professional team had won this prestigious award more than once (the organization was also a finalist for the award in 2017 and 2018).

Additionally, under Lacob's leadership, the Warriors were named the winner of the Entrepreneurial Company of the Year (ENCORE) Award in 2016 by the Stanford University Graduate School of Business, recognizing the organization's entrepreneurial spirit in redefining sports management, pioneering the use of sports analytics in the NBA and adopting new technologies that have transformed the fan experience. The Warriors became the first sports organization to win the ENCORE Award, which has been presented annually since 1982 and recognizes companies from around the world, including such recent winners as Google (2004), Apple (2005) and Amazon (2010).

In addition to the Warriors' organization-wide honors, Lacob was named the 2016 recipient of the Sports Executive of the Year award by Sports Business Journal. He was also named one of the Bay Area's Most Admired CEOs by the San Francisco Business Times in November of 2015.

Since making a then-record-setting $450-million bid to purchase his hometown NBA club and assuming control of the team on November 12, 2010, Lacob has been the driving force behind many of the creative changes that have transpired with the organization, including several major announcements, prominent personnel additions and an emphasis on transparency. Additionally, since its inception in 2012, the revamped Warriors Community Foundation has awarded over $22.5 million in impact to the Bay Area, including over $13 million in yearly educational grants.

In October 2015, the Warriors completed the purchase of 12 acres of land in San Francisco's Mission Bay neighborhood and, in January 2017, broke ground on Chase Center, the team's 100% privately-financed, state-of-the-art sports and entertainment venue. Less than three years later, Chase Center celebrated its ribbon-cutting ceremony on September 3, 2019, and Lacob's vision of opening the doors to the first-ever arena in San Francisco became a reality. The dynamic 18,064-seat arena hosts Warriors basketball, concerts, cultural events, family shows, conventions and other activities, totaling over 200 events a year. Located in the heart of Mission Bay, the 11-acre district features two office buildings, 100,000 square feet of retail, close to 30 unique retail establishments (when complete) and over three acres of publicly accessible plazas and open space. In September of 2020, after one year of operation, Chase Center was named "Sports Facility of the Year" by the Sports Business Journal.

During his first full off-season with the organization (summer of 2011), Lacob recruited two of the most experienced, successful and respected individuals in NBA circles to join the franchise, landing NBA Hall of Famer and basketball icon Jerry West as an executive board member, and hiring longtime league and team executive—and 2018 Hall of Fame inductee—Rick Welts as president and chief operating officer. Additionally, Lacob played a significant role in the hiring of successful sports agent Bob Myers, who is now the club's president of basketball operations/general manager, and Head Coach Steve Kerr. Myers was named NBA Executive of the Year following the Warriors championship seasons of 2014-15 and 2016-17; Kerr was named NBA Coach of the Year following the 2015-16 season.

Lacob's NBA and professional sports experience dates back over two decades, including a five-year tenure as minority investor of the Boston Celtics, where he served on the basketball committee. He earned his first NBA championship ring in 2008 with the Celtics before selling his minority stake to purchase the Warriors.

In 1987, Lacob began his career at Kleiner Perkins Caufield & Byers, based in Menlo Park, Calif. Though still a strategic advisor to the firm, he relinquished his managing partner role in order to pursue his lifelong goal of owning and operating an NBA franchise. In his role as a venture capitalist, he led investments in over 50 start-up companies across multiple fields in life sciences and medical technologies, the internet and energy.

Lacob earned a bachelor's degree in Biological Sciences from the University of California-Irvine, a master's degree in Public Health (Epidemiology) from UCLA and an M.B.A. from the Stanford Graduate School of Business. He credits his master's degree in Epidemiology (biostatistics) with providing him a background in statistics that helped drive his passion for sports. It also played a role in his decision to invest in Sportsline—one of the first sports internet sites—and one of Lacob's earliest sports success stories. He was also a primary investor and pioneer of the American Basketball League, a professional women's basketball league that eventually succumbed to the WNBA. Lacob continues as one of the original partners in the Pebble Beach Company, an effort formed to bring the historic Pebble Beach resort and golf course back to long-term American ownership. Additionally, Lacob has been involved with Stanford basketball for over 30 years and is a fixture in his courtside seats at Maples Pavilion. Lacob currently serves on the Board of Directors of one public company, Align Technology, as well as several other privately-held companies.

In recent years, Lacob has been involved in industry organizations including the American Heart Association and the AHA Roundtable. He has also been very active at Stanford University, serving on advisory boards at the medical center, business school and athletic department. Lacob's philanthropic interests focus on education, both in the community and with universities. In 2014, he gifted $1 million to Washington University in St. Louis to establish a new Sports Management program at the Olin Business School. He has also provided scholarships to a number of high potential academic and athletic high school and college students in need.

An avid golfer, Lacob has been a longtime participant in the AT&T National Pro-Am at Pebble Beach. He plays in regular pick-up basketball games at least twice weekly at Stanford, doing so for the last 30 years. Most importantly for Warriors fans, Lacob has been a passionate fan of the Bay Area club that he now operates, supporting his local franchise as a loyal and dedicated season ticket holder since 1998.

Joe Lacob accepts the 2016 ENCORE Award on behalf of the Golden State Warriors organization. The award, which is given annually by the Stanford University Graduate School of Business, recognizes best in class entrepreneurial companies from around the world.

PETER GUBER

Co-Executive Chairman

Peter Guber, a prominent figure in the sports and entertainment industry for more than 35 years, begins his 11th season as co-executive chairman of the Golden State Warriors. Under his leadership since 2010, the Warriors have enjoyed immense success, highlighted by three NBA Championships (2015, 2017, 2018), five Western Conference titles (2015-2019) and the recording of the greatest single-season record in NBA history (73-9 in 2015-16). Prior to last season, the Warriors become only the second team in league history to advance to five consecutive NBA Finals (2015-2019), joining the Boston Celtics of the 1950s and 60s. Off the court, the Warriors were named "Franchise of the Decade" by the Sports Business Journal (SBJ) in December 2019, an award that encompasses all 123 teams in the NBA, NFL, MLB and NHL. The award-winning sports business publication also bestowed "Sports Team of the Year" honors to the Warriors in 2014 and 2016 in recognition of the organization's innovative and successful business practices. This marked the first time that any professional team had won this prestigious award more than once (the organization was also a finalist for the award in 2017 and 2018).

In addition to the Warriors, Guber owns a wealth of experience in sports and location-based entertainment. One of his core principles is the importance of enhancing every aspect of the fan experience, from entrance to exit. With that philosophy as a driving force, on January 17, 2017, the Warriors broke ground on Chase Center, the organization's 100% privately-financed, state-of-the-art sports and entertainment complex in San Francisco's Mission Bay neighborhood. Less than 32 months later, on September 6, 2019, Chase Center opened its doors, immediately becoming one of the crown jewels around the world, and the first-ever arena in the City of San Francisco. A year after its opening (September, 2020), Chase Center was named "Sports Facility of the Year" by the Sports Business Journal.

One of the most successful executives and entrepreneurs in the entertainment and communications industries, Guber's impressive resume includes serving as the chairman & CEO of Sony Entertainment, president of Columbia Pictures, chairman and CEO of Polygram Entertainment and co-owner and co-chairman of Casablanca Record & Filmworks. Among the films he personally produced or executive produced are Rain Man (Academy Award – Best Picture), Batman, The Color Purple, Midnight Express, Gorillas in the Mist, The Witches of Eastwick, Missing and Flashdance. Guber's personal movies have earned more than $3 billion worldwide, while also garnering more than 50 Academy Award nominations.

Guber is the founder and CEO of Mandalay Entertainment, a visionary multimedia venture spanning movies, TV, sports and digital media. Mandalay's feature films include Soul Surfer, The Kids Are All Right, Bernie, Donnie Brasco and Sleepy Hollow, among many others, including the most recent film, Afterburn, starring Gerard Butler, which began filming in London in fall 2018. "The Last Dance," a 10-part documentary which focused on Michael Jordan and the Chicago Bulls' 1997-98 championship run, was produced by Mandalay Entertainment for ESPN. Guber expanded Mandalay into a national entertainment sports provider and he currently serves as Chairman of the Board of Directors. He is the Managing Director of Mandalay Baseball LLC, a joint venture with the Los Angeles Dodgers that acquired the Triple-A affiliated Minor League Baseball franchise in Oklahoma City, which became the Triple-A affiliate of the Dodgers.

Guber, together with Guggenheim Group and Magic Johnson, acquired the Los Angeles Dodgers in May 2012. Under their ownership, the franchise has won eight consecutive National League West division titles, enjoyed three World Series appearances in the last four years (2017, 2018, 2020) and won the 2020 World Series. He joins Jerry Reinsdorf (Bulls, White Sox) as the only current owners to win both an NBA and MLB title.

In October of 2014, Guber became the owner and executive chairman of Major League Soccer's Los Angeles Football Club (LAFC), which made their debut in 2018 in the Banc of California Stadium, the first new open-air stadium built in the city of Los Angeles since Dodger Stadium in 1962. In 2018, LAFC accomplished the best regular season for an MLS expansion team, earning 57 points. The team then earned a record-breaking 72 points in 2019, winning their first major MLS trophy, the Supporter's Shield, and captured the Western Conference title before their season ended in the conference finals. LAFC appeared in the 2020 Concacaf Champions League, an international competition featuring the top clubs from North America, Central America and the Caribbean. LAFC was one of four US teams to qualify for the 16-team tournament.

Guber joins Ted Leonsis, Jeff Vinik and Bruce Karsh as one of four co-executive chairmen of aXiomatic, a broad-based esports and gaming company. The company has a majority stake in Team Liquid, a top esports team in the U.S. and Europe with 60 players competing in 14 games. Team Liquid's collective teams have won the most prize money in the history of esports while amassing trophies across different titles and different countries, including winning the 2017 DOTA 2 International Championships, which boasted the largest purse in esports history. Their League of Legends team has won four LCS titles, and their Counter-Strike Global Offensive team was awarded the Intel Grand Slam prize in 2019, a feat achieved in just four tournaments. aXiomatic also has stakes in esports companies Epic Games, ("Fortnite"), Niantic ("Pokemon GO"), Super League Gaming, Gamer Sensei and Bitkraft.

In June 2017, California Governor Jerry Brown appointed Guber to the prestigious position of Regent of the University of California. Additionally, Guber serves as a full professor at UCLA, teaching at the Anderson School of Management and the School of Theater, Film, Television and Digital Media. He is a member of the UCLA Foundation Board of Trustees, as well as the winner of UCLA's prestigious Service Award for his accomplishments in association with the school. Guber is the founding member of the Board of Advisors for the Center for Managing Enterprises in Media, Entertainment & Sports (MEMES) at the UCLA Anderson School of Management.

A noted author, Guber's third book, Tell To Win – Connect, Persuade, and Triumph with the Hidden Power of Story, was published by Crown Business and became an instant #1 New York Times, Amazon, and Wall Street Journal bestseller. The book is in its 18th printing.

Guber was recruited by Columbia Pictures out of NYU's Graduate School of Business, where he was pursuing an MBA. He holds a BA, Master of Law and Juris Doctorate degrees. He received his honorary doctorate in Fine Arts from the University of Connecticut; was named Albert Gallatin Fellow at New York University; is a recipient of Syracuse University's George Arents Pioneer Award, the highest honor that can be given to an alumnus, for his distinguished work in film. In 2016, Guber was named Business Person of the Year by the Los Angeles Business Journal.

BASKETBALL OPERATIONS

BOB MYERS

President of Basketball Operations / General Manager

Bob Myers begins his ninth season as general manager of the Golden State Warriors and fifth with the additional title of President of Basketball Operations. In this role, he reports directly to Co-Executive Chairman & CEO Joe Lacob and oversees the entire basketball operations department on a day-to-day basis. Myers was originally named GM on April 24, 2012.

Myers, 46, has assembled a roster that won three NBA titles (2015, 2017, 2018) in four seasons and made five consecutive appearances in the NBA Finals (2015-2019). The Warriors (2014-19) tied the Celtics (1980-85) for the most regular season wins (373) in NBA history over a six-season span, including an NBA-record 73 wins in 2015-16. Myers earned the NBA Executive of the Year award in both 2014-15 and 2016-17 and is the only executive in Warriors history to earn Executive of the Year honors multiple times and one of only five in league history to earn the honor twice in a span of three seasons.

During his tenure as general manager the Warriors have enjoyed their most successful stretch in franchise history, posting a .650 regular- season winning percentage (458-247), which is the second-best record in the NBA over that stretch, trailing only the Spurs (.675, 480-231). The Warriors earned a franchise-record seven-straight trips to the NBA Playoffs (2013-2019), surpassing the previous record of six, set in the NBA's first six-seasons in existence from 1946-47 through 1951-52. The franchise had qualified for the playoffs just once in the previous 18 years.

Throughout Myers' tenure, the Warriors have retained many of their top talents, signing starters Stephen Curry, Draymond Green and Klay Thompson to contract extensions. Myers acquired 2015 NBA Finals MVP Andre Iguodala via trade in 2013 and signed Kevin Durant, the 2017 and 2018 NBA Finals MVP.

Besides acquiring key players, one of Myers' most important decisions was the signing of current Head Coach Steve Kerr on May 19, 2014. Kerr was named the NBA's Coach of Year in 2014-15 and along with his coaching staff, twice coached the Western Conference All-Stars (2015, 2017).

Myers originally joined the Warriors on April 14, 2011, as assistant general manager/vice president of basketball operations, after enjoying a highly successful 14-year stint as a representative to numerous NBA players. During his first year with the Warriors organization, he worked closely under the tutelage of then-General Manager Larry Riley on all Basketball Operations matters, including contract negotiations, talent evaluation, roster management, scouting and CBA compliance.

Before joining the Warriors, Myers spent the previous five years at Wasserman Media Group (WMG) in Los Angeles. As managing executive at WMG, which is one of the largest global sports and entertainment companies in the world, Myers represented a client list of nearly 20 NBA players in their team and endorsement contracts.

STEVE KERR

MEDIA PAGE

Beginning his seventh season as Head Coach of the Golden State Warriors, Steve Kerr has guided the club through five of the most prolific seasons in NBA history with a list of accomplishments that includes three NBA championships, five-straight NBA Finals appearances, the NBA's single-season wins record (73), an NBA Coach of the Year award (2015-16), and five of the six winningest seasons in franchise history. He owns an overall playoff record of 77-28 (.733), the highest winning percentage among NBA head coaches all-time that have coached a minimum of 25 postseason games. On April 19, 2018 Kerr earned his 50th playoff victory in just his 65th game, accomplishing the feat in fewer games than any coach in NBA history.

In October 2018, Kerr was named as an assistant coach on the 2019-20 USA Basketball Men's National Team. Kerr, along with Indiana Pacers Head Coach Nate McMillan and Villanova University Head Coach Jay Wright, join the staff of USA and San Antonio Spurs Head Coach Gregg Popovich to complete the USA National Team coaching staff. The coaches led the USA National Team in 2019-20, which included the 2019 FIBA World Cup in China (Aug. 31-Sept. 15, 2019) and the upcoming 2021 Summer Olympic Games in Tokyo, Japan. Kerr was a member of the USA Basketball team that captured the 1986 World Championship title in Madrid, the last American men's senior team composed strictly of amateur players to capture a gold medal. A finalist for the 1988 U.S. Olympic Basketball Team, Kerr was also a member of the 1988 USA Select Team that finished 6-0 during a European tour.

Kerr, who won five NBA championships during a 15-year playing career, now owns eight championships as either a player or coach, becoming the first to win at least three NBA titles as a player and three as a coach. Kerr is just the third coach in NBA history to win three championships in his first four seasons at the helm, joining Phil Jackson (1991, 1992, 1993) and John Kundla (1949, 1950, 1952) as the only coaches to do so.

In the 2017 postseason, Golden State posted a 16-1 (.941) record, the best single-season playoff record in league history that included a playoff-record 15-game win streak. In Kerr's first three seasons on the bench, the Warriors became the first team in NBA history to win at least 65 games in three consecutive campaigns (67, 73, 67).

In 2014-15, Kerr engineered the most successful campaign of any first-year coach in NBA history en route to Golden State's first title in 40 years, posting a then-franchise-record 67 victories and establishing NBA records for most wins and highest winning percentage (67-15, .817) by a first-year head coach. The Warriors saw a 16-game improvement in 2014-15 over the previous season (51-31 in 2013-14), an NBA record for the biggest improvement by a 50-win team in league history. Kerr followed his inaugural campaign by winning the 2015-16 NBA Coach of the Year Award for leading the Warriors to an NBA-record 73 regular-season wins in 2015-16 (73-9, .890), eclipsing the previous mark of 72 set by a Chicago Bulls squad in 1995-96 that featured Kerr in a reserve role. In addition to the single-season wins record, the Warriors set new league marks for single-season road wins (34), consecutive wins to begin a season (24) and consecutive regular-season home wins (54).

Originally named to the position on May 19, 2014, Kerr is the 25th head coach in franchise history and the 20th since the team moved to the West Coast in 1962. He is the fourth Warriors coach to win an NBA title, joining Eddie Gottlieb (1947), George Senesky (1956) and Alvin Attles (1975). He is also just the third coach in franchise history to be named Coach of the Year, joining Alex Hannum (1963-64) and Don Nelson (1991-92). Twice, Kerr and his coaching staff were named to coach the Western Conference All-Star Team (2015, 2017).

Kerr, 54, owns 30 years of NBA experience as a player, coach, television analyst and front office executive, including a three-year stint (2007-10) as president of basketball operations and general manager for the Phoenix Suns. During his time as the Suns GM, the club posted a 155-91 (.630) record and earned a pair of playoff berths, including a trip to the 2010 Western Conference Finals.

Having made the playoffs 11 times during his playing career, Kerr is one of only 26 players in NBA history to win five championships, earning three rings with Chicago and two with San Antonio. A key reserve for Chicago during the team's three-peat championship run from 1996-98, Kerr famously hit the game-winning, title-clinching shot in Game 6 of the 1997 NBA Finals. He won his fourth consecutive championship in 1999 with the San Antonio Spurs to become one of only two non-Boston Celtics to win four-straight NBA titles (joining Frank Saul, 1951-54). His fifth ring came in his second stint with the Spurs during his final NBA campaign in 2002-03.

During his most recent stint in broadcasting, beginning in 2010, Kerr also served as an analyst for NCAA Tournament and Final Four coverage on Turner Sports and CBS.

Kerr earned a degree in general studies from Arizona with an emphasis in history, sociology and English in 1988 and advocates for gun control, supporting such organizations as the Brady campaign, Sandy Hook Promise, March For Our Lives, and Giffords. Kerr also helps fundraise for Oakland Promise, an initiative launched by Mayor Libby Schaaf and the Oakland Unified School District in 2016 that aims to triple the number of Oakland high school graduates who complete college by the year 2024. In October 2014, Steve and Margot Kerr committed $1 million to the University of Arizona to assist with the McKale Memorial Center renovation and future academic facility enhancements.

Born on September 27, 1965, Steve and his wife, Margot, have two sons, Nicholas and Matthew, and one daughter, Madeleine. Nick received his degree from the University of San Diego in 2015 and completed his graduate studies at the University of California, Berkeley, where he played as a walk-on for the Bears' basketball team for one season. The spectacular arena, which opened in September of 2019, is considered one of Welts' finest accomplishments during a storied career and, in fact, led to his opportunity to ring the opening bell at the New York Stock Exchange during Chase Center's opening month. A year after its opening, Chase Center was named Sports Facility of the Year by the Sports Business Journal and received numerous distinctions and awards.

He owns the rare distinction of being part of championship teams in the NBA (4), WNBA (2) and NBA G League (1).

Under Welts' direction, the Warriors have established several franchise benchmarks from a business standpoint, as the team's brand continues to grow in stature following five consecutive appearances in the NBA Finals and three NBA championships (2015, 2017, 2018). ALVIN ATTLES

Warriors Legend & Community Ambassador

Alvin Attles, 84, is entering his 61st year with the Warriors organization, the longest active streak with one team in the NBA. Twice honored by the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame, Attles joined the Warriors in 1960 (Philadelphia Warriors' fifth-round draft choice) and has since been affiliated with the club in one capacity or another, building a unique relationship based on commitment, loyalty and dedication.

In September 2019, Attles was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame as part of the Class of 2019 in a ceremony in Springfield, Mass. Five years earlier in August 2014, Attles was honored with the John R. Bunn Lifetime Achievement Award. The award, which is the most prestigious of its kind presented by the Hall of Fame outside of Enshrinement, honors coaches, players and contributors whose outstanding accomplishments have impacted the game of basketball.

Attles is one of only six players in Warriors history to have his jersey retired (#16) – joining Rick Barry (#24), Wilt Chamberlain (#13), Tom Meschery (#14), Chris Mullin (#17), and Nate Thurmond (#42) – and remains one of the most publicly recognizable sports figures in the Bay Area.

His endless contributions locally as a player, executive and civic leader resulted in his much-deserved induction into the Bay Area Sports Hall of Fame in 1993. In the summer of 2006, the newly refurbished outdoor basketball court at Lincoln Square Park in downtown Oakland was permanently renamed "Alvin Attles Court" in honor of the local legend and longtime Oakland resident. And, most recently, the Warriors announced that the team will present the Alvin Attles Volunteer Award to the team employee who goes above and beyond in their efforts to serve the Bay Area community as part of the organization's Helping Hands volunteer program.

In the latter stages of the 1969-70 NBA campaign, Attles was named head coach of the Warriors, replacing George Lee after 52 games (spent the final two years of his playing career [1969-70 and 1970-71] as a player/coach). His 30-game stint as head coach to end that season proved to be the start of the longest head coaching run in Warriors franchise history, a 13-plus year tenure which produced, among other highlights, the first NBA Championship in the club's West Coast history (1974-75).

During his 13-year coaching run, Attles guided the Warriors to six playoff berths, two division titles and amassed an overall record of 557-518, which ranks 25th on the NBA's all-time coach win list. One season after leading Golden State to the NBA title, he led the Warriors to a sparkling 59-23 record in 1975-76, which stood as the best mark in franchise history until 2014-15 and was the top record in the NBA that season. He also was named head coach of the Western Conference All-Star Team in both 1975 and 1976. Attles completed his coaching career in 1982-83 to become the Warriors GM, heading the team's basketball operations for three years.

One of the most aggressive and hard-nosed players in the league, Attles earned the unique nickname of "The Destroyer," which appropriately described his mentality on the floor. During his 11-year NBA career, he averaged 8.9 points, 3.5 rebounds and 3.5 assists in 711 regular-season games and currently ranks fifth on the Warriors all-time games played list (711). Furthermore, he was involved in one of the most memorable games in NBA history on March 2, 1962, when he and teammate Wilt Chamberlain combined for 117 points against the New York Knicks, the most ever by a pair of players in league annals. In that game, Attles tallied 17 points (8-8 FG, 1-1 FT), while Chamberlain netted an all-time NBA record 100 points. He retired following the 1970-71 campaign to focus strictly on coaching, eliminating his dual role as player/coach.

A 1960 graduate of North Carolina A&T, Attles earned his bachelor's degree in physical education and history. He later added a master's degree in curriculum and instruction to his credentials from the University of San Francisco in 1983. In 2015, Attles became the first player to have his number retired by North Carolina A&T when the school hung his #22 jersey from the rafters.

Al and his wife, Wilhelmina, reside in Oakland, Calif., and have two adult children, Alvin III and Erica.

In unveiling their new logo on June 17, 2010, the Golden State Warriors drew on the franchise's rich Bay Area history, creating a modern version of the team's most popular logos and uniforms from years gone by to simultaneously salute the team's past and serve as a link to the exciting prospects of the organization's future. Prior to the 2019-20 season, the logo was updated with a more accurate portrayal of the Bay Bridge and custom font.

A silhouette of the Eastern Span of the Bay Bridge is the focal point of the team's primary logo design. This Bay Bridge rendering as the centerpiece of the team's new look is a direct spin-off of "The City" jersey, which the club wore from 1966-71. To this day, "The City" logo remains one of the most popular emblems in the history of professional sports.

The depiction of the Bay Bridge also serves as the link between the Warriors' original Bay Area home in San Francisco, where the team arrived from Philadelphia 50 years ago returns for the first time since 1971, and its former home in Oakland, where the team played its home games at Oracle Arena (formerly the Oakland Coliseum Arena) for 47 of the last 48 seasons (the Warriors spent one year in San Jose in 1996-97).

The colors of the new logo and branding elements are Warriors Royal Blue and California Golden Yellow. These two colors have been the most prevalent in the team's Bay Area uniform history, appearing as the dominant scheme in four of the last five decades since the team's arrival on the West Coast in 1962.

The current Warriors logo, which was the team's first major branding and identity change since 1997, helped mark the beginning of a new era for one of the NBA's longest tenured franchises. A new era that began, appropriately enough, with a tip of the cap to the team's past.

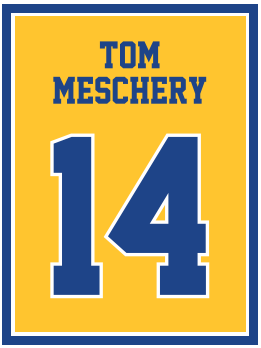
NBA's 50 Greatest Players

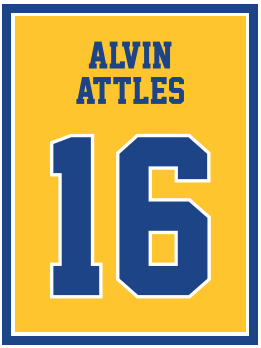
On October 29, 1996, the NBA named its 50 Greatest Players in history in conjunction with the league's 50th anniversary. The following is a list of Warriors who were named with the years they played with the franchise:

Paul Arizin, 1950-62
Rick Barry, 1965-67, 72-78
Wilt Chamberlain, 1959-65
Jerry Lucas, 1969-71
Robert Parish, 1976-80
Nate Thurmond, 1963-74

Wilt Chamberlain averaged 41.5 points and 25.1 rebounds in five seasons with the Philadelphia and San Francisco Warriors. Chamberlain was named both Rookie of the Year and Most Valuable Player in 1959-60 and earned four MVP awards over the course of his career. He owns numerous franchise and NBA records, including most points (100) and rebounds (55) in a game, and is the only player ever to average over 50 points per game in a single season (50.4 in 1961-62). He was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 1979 and his number was retired by the Warriors on December 29, 1999.



Tom Meschery played six of his 10 NBA seasons with the Philadelphia and San Francisco Warriors, averaging 12.9 points and 8.5 rebounds per game with the team. The 1963 NBA All-Star also appeared in 39 playoff games with the Warriors, averaging 16.3 points. His interest in poetry and literature earned him the nickname of "Renaissance Man" among his Warriors teammates, but his ferociousness and intensity on the court made him known by others as "The Mad Russian." He was the first Warrior to have his number retired on October 13, 1967.



Alvin Attles joined the Philadelphia Warriors in 1960 as the club's fifth-round draft choice and has been affiliated with the franchise ever since, a span of 60 years that represents the longest stint with a single franchise in NBA history. In 11 seasons as a player, he averaged 8.9 points over 711 career games. He is the franchise leader in coaching victories with 557 and guided the Warriors to the 1975 NBA Championship during his 13-year run as the team's head coach. Attles was honored by the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame with the John W. Bunn Lifetime Achievement Award in 2014 and later inducted into the Hall of Fame as a contributor in 2019. His number was retired on February 10, 1977.

Chris Mullin averaged 20.1 points over 13 seasons with the Warriors, appearing in more games (807) and recording more steals (1,360) than any player in franchise history. The five-time NBA All-Star averaged 26.5 points in 1988-89, the first of five consecutive campaigns in which he averaged 25-plus points. Mullin, alongside Tim Hardaway and Mitch Richmond, anchored the high-scoring trio known as Run TMC, which spent two seasons together from 1989-91. He was also a member of the fabled Dream Team in 1992, capturing one of his two Olympic gold medals. He was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 2011 and his number was retired by the Warriors on March 19, 2012.

Rick Barry averaged 25.6 points during his eight years with the Warriors, earning NBA All-Star accolades in each of those seasons. The 1966 NBA Rookie of the Year earned All-NBA honors six times with the club and led the league in scoring with 35.6 points per game in 1966-67. He averaged 26.9 points in 66 playoff games and was named NBA Finals MVP in Golden State's 4-0 sweep of the Washington Bullets in the 1975 NBA Finals. He was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 1987 and his number was retired by the Warriors on March 18, 1988.

Nate Thurmond averaged 17.4 points and 16.9 rebounds during his 11 seasons with the Warriors, making seven All-Star Game appearances. Named to the NBA All-Defensive Team five times with the Warriors, Thurmond ranks as the team's all-time leader in minutes played (30,735) and total rebounds (12,771). "Big Nate" appeared in an additional 54 postseason games with the Warriors, averaging 15.4 points and 16.6 rebounds in those contests. He was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 1985 and his number was retired by the Warriors on March 8, 1978.

CONFERENCE & DIVISION CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Golden State Warriors became the first team in NBA history to win five consecutive conference titles (2014-2019) and have earned six Western Conference Championships in their franchise history since the NBA began using the conference format in 1970-71. The Warriors became only the second team to earn five straight trips to the Western Conference Finals, joining the Los Angeles Lakers (eight straight, 1982-1989). Since 1970-71, only five franchises - Warriors, Lakers, Celtics, Bulls and Pistons - have made at least five-straight appearances in the conference finals. Eight times the Warriors have advanced to the conference finals, winning six of those series.

The Golden State Warriors have captured the Pacific Division title seven times since the NBA began using the current divisional format in 1970-71, second only to the Los Angeles Lakers' 23 divisional titles. The Warriors claimed the division crown in five straight seasons, 2014-15 to 2018-19.

Warriors Head Coach Steve Kerr joins Pat Riley as the only coaches to win division titles in each of their first five seasons as a head coach, according to the Elias Sports Bureau. Among the four major professional sports leagues, the Warriors are the first Bay Area team to earn five consecutive division crowns since the San Francisco 49ers won five-straight NFC West titles from 1986-1990. The Warriors join the Lakers as the only teams to win the Pacific Division in five consecutive seasons, which the Lakers last accomplished from 2007-08 to 2011-12.

CURRENT PACIFIC DIVISION TEAMS

THE PHILLY YEARS

Before moving West and staking claim in the Bay Area, the Warriors called Philadelphia their home for 16 memorable years.

From the inception of the Basketball Association of America (the predecessor to the National Basketball Association) in 1946, to the conclusion of the 1961-62 season, the Philadelphia Warriors dazzled their fans and produced legendary players like Wilt Chamberlain, Joseph Fulks, Paul Arizin and Neil Johnston en route to amassing a record of 558-545 and capturing two NBA championships.

Expanding on the National Basketball League of the 1930's and 40's, The Basketball Association of America began play in November 1946 and consisted of 11 teams and two divisions. The Philadelphia Warriors took residence in the Eastern Division, and under the guidance of head coach Eddie Gottlieb wasted no time in claiming the first ever title, beating the Chicago Stags in the championship series (4-1). The inaugural Warriors were led by "Jumping" Joe Fulks, who followed up his league-leading scoring average (23.2) in the 60-game regular season by averaging 22.2 points in the playoffs, including a game-high 37 points in Game 1 of The Finals.

Philadelphia Warriors forward Paul Arizin (#11) shoots during the 1956 NBA Finals.

The league prospered and grew to 17 teams and was renamed the National Basketball Association prior to the 1949-50 season. The Warriors claimed their second title in 1956, beating the Fort Wayne Pistons in a five-game series (4-1). In doing so, they completed one of the most dramatic turnarounds in NBA history, going from last place in the Eastern Division in 1954-55 to the penthouse one year later. Former Warriors player George Senesky, in his first full season as head coach, directed a well-balanced squad to an NBA-best 45-27 record, as every member of the starting five averaged double-figure scoring. Leading the way were NBA All-Stars Arizin (24.2 points and 7.4 rebounds) and Neil Johnston (22.1 points, a league-leading .457 field goal percentage and 12.5 rebounds). In the championship series against Fort Wayne, Arizin averaged 29.0 points. In the deciding fifth game, Joseph Graboski led the way with a team-high 29 points.

In the 1959 NBA Draft, the Warriors chose Philadelphia native Wilt Chamberlain out of Kansas University as a territorial selection. The 7-1, 275-pound giant with tremendous power and grace would soon change the face of the game forever. As a rookie, Chamberlain averaged 37.6 points and 27.0 rebounds a game, shattering previous league highs. His powerful slam dunks and unprecedented statistics drew a record amount of fans not yet seen by the young league. Chamberlain coasted to the league's Rookie of the Year and Most Valuable Player awards. With Arizin, Woody Sauldsberry, Tom Gola and Guy Rodgers surrounding the superstar center, rookie Head Coach Neil Johnston and the Warriors cruised into the Eastern Division Finals, where they fell to the powerhouse Boston Celtics. This series gave birth to one of the NBA's greatest rivalries, the clash of Chamberlain versus Bill Russell.

During the 1960-61 season, Chamberlain's numbers and reputation continued to grow, drawing huge crowds wherever the Warriors traveled. He averaged 38.4 points and hauled in 27.2 rebounds during this memorable season. The Warriors added a gritty, hard-nosed rookie guard by the name of Alvin Attles to the squad and returned to the playoffs only to be knocked off by the Syracuse Nationals.

The following season would be a record-setting year for "Wilt the Stilt." His 50.4 scoring average and 4,029 total points are records that have yet to be challenged. Chamberlain's season was highlighted by a perfromance in Hershey, Pa. on March 2, 1962, when he scored an incredible 100 points in a game against the New York Knicks.

Riding the backs of Chamberlain, Arizin, Attles and rookie Tom Meschery, the Warriors finished with a 49-31 record and met the Celtics again in the Eastern Division Finals. In a seven-game battle that saw Chamberlain swarmed by Russell and Celtic double and triple-teams, the Warriors lost (109-107) in Game 7. It would be the team's last game as the Philadelphia Warriors.

NOTES

- Golden State played 65 games before the NBA postponed the regular season on March 11, 2020 due to the pandemic. The season restarted in Orlando with 22 teams as the Warriors were among the eight teams that did not participate (Atlanta, Charlotte, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Minnesota, New York).
- On October 24, 2020, the Warriors hosted the Los Angeles Clippers at Chase Center, playing their first regular season game in San Francisco since January 29, 1971 (San Francisco Civic Auditorium).
- The Warriors' streak of consecutive playoff berths ended at a franchise-record seven, and their streak NBA Finals appearances ended at five.
- Rookie forward Eric Paschall was named to the 2020 NBA All-Rookie First Team, becoming the latest draft selection by the Warriors to garner All-Rookie honors, passing Marc Jackson, who was selected 38th overall in 2000.
- The Warriors acquired forward Andrew Wiggins along with a 2021 first-round draft pick (top three protected) and a 2021 second-round draft pick in exchange from the Minnesota Timberwolves for Jacob Evans, D'Angelo Russell and Omari Spellman (February 6, 2020). Wiggins became the ninth former first overall pick to appear in a game for the Warriors since 1966.
- The Warriors 296 player games missed due to injury or illness. Stephen Curry missed 60 games, the most he has ever missed in a single season in his career (58 due to a left hand fracture and two to influenza). Draymond Green missed a career-high 22 games. Klay Thompson missed the entire season while rehabilitating his left ACL, an injury suffered in Game 6 of the 2019 NBA Finals.

Shortly after purchasing the Golden State Warriors in November of 2010, Co-Executive Chairman & CEO Joe Lacob and Co-Executive Chairman Peter Guber vowed to improve the team's development of young players. In an effort to help that process, the Warriors purchased the Dakota Wizards franchise of the NBA G League in the summer of 2011, forging a one-on-one relationship between the two clubs and giving the Warriors total control over the roster, coaching staff and business operations of the G League team.

In the summer of 2012, the Warriors announced their intention to move the G League team to Northern California and rebrand the club as the Santa Cruz Warriors. Having the team in close proximity to the parent club allows the Warriors to easily monitor their players who are on assignment in the G League, while also making it easier for players and staff to travel between the two clubs.

On October 10, 2012, the NBA G League officially approved the relocation of the club from Bismarck, ND, to Northern California for the 2012-13 campaign. In the matter of 78 days, the Warriors built Kaiser Permanente Arena, a 2,500-seat facility located in downtown Santa Cruz, and were ready to play their inaugural season in Surf City.

The team, which is celebrating its ninth season in Northern California, made an instant connection with the Santa Cruz and central coast communities, playing in front of a passionate fan base that has sold out 95 consecutive home games dating back to the 2015-16 season, the longest active streak among G League teams.

On the court, the Warriors advanced to the NBA G League Finals in each of their first three seasons and won the 2015 G League Championship. On the development side, Santa Cruz saw four players – Antonius Cleveland, Quinn Cook, Damion Lee and Georges Niang – earn GATORADE Call-Ups in 2017-18, bringing the franchise total to 13 players earning 34 Call-Ups. Santa Cruz earned the 2013-14 NBA G League "Development Champion" Award, which recognizes the G League team that best embodies the league's goals of developing NBA basketball talent via GATORADE Call-Ups and assignments.

In addition to player call-ups, front office and coaching staff members have moved from Santa Cruz to Golden State. Kent Lacob, who served as Santa Cruz's general manager for three seasons, was promoted to the Golden State Warriors director, team development in August 2019. Aaron Miles, who was Santa Cruz's head coach for the last two seasons, was named as a player development for the Golden State Warriors prior to the 2019-20 season.

Off the court, the Santa Cruz Warriors earned the first NBA G League Franchise of the Year award for their excellence in business operations during the 2017-18 season. Santa Cruz was also named the "Business of the Year" by the Santa Cruz Chamber of Commerce in 2016 for their contributions to building the economic vitality, prosperity and quality of life in Santa Cruz County.

Andrisevic came to Santa Cruz after serving as head coach of BC Prievidza in Slovakia. Previously, he was the head coach of Asker BC in Norway's top basketball league, leading the youngest team in the history of the league to a championship berth with a 15-6 record.

While studying to complete his M.B.A., Andrisevic worked as the men's basketball coordinator at Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa. He played professionally in Germany, Denmark and England after a three-year collegiate career at Arizona State University, where he was teammates with former Golden State Warrior Ike Diogu.

WARRIORS COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

The Warriors Community Foundation, the philanthropic arm of the Golden State Warriors, is committed to supporting educational equity for underserved Bay Area youth. Since its inception in 2012, the Foundation has delivered over $24 million in economic impact to support education and youth development in the Bay Area, including $13 million in cash grants to nonprofits, and the Oakland and San Francisco Unified School Districts. This includes their educational grants, and the Hoops 4 Kids program (warriors.com/kids), where Warriors achievements on the court directly benefit disadvantaged children.

The Foundation also rebuilds public basketball courts around the region. To date, more than 85 courts have been refurbished around the Bay Area, helping to revitalize local communities with safe and clean places for families and youth to enjoy the game of basketball.

Finally, the Foundation has donated over 20,000 tickets to schools and nonprofits that serve low-income children, helping to share the joy and excitement of Warriors home games.

The Foundation is sustained by generous contributions from Warriors owners, players, partners, and fans.

WARRIORS BASKETBALL ACADEMY

Warriors Basketball Academy encompasses all youth basketball related events and programs. The expansion of these efforts center around the Golden State Warriors' former practice facility in downtown Oakland and the Academy's newly gained access to that facility. After a major renovation which included resurfaced basketball courts, new basketball hoops and the addition of Shoot 360 technology, the facility is now one of the most advanced basketball training facilities in the country.

Its re-opening marks the first NBA team-owned facility in the U.S. dedicated to youth basketball development. With these upgrades, Warriors Basketball Academy will now be included in the Jr NBA's Flagship Network, comprised of 18 best-in-class youth basketball organizations that share the Jr NBA's vision.

In addition to programming at the East Bay facility, Warriors Basketball Academy will continue to impact the Bay Area youth basketball landscape by facilitating long-standing programs, Warriors Basketball Camp and the Junior Warriors Basketball League, throughout the region.

Since its inception in the summer of 2000, Warriors Basketball Camp has hosted over 60,000 youth from across the United States in hundreds of sessions in over 30 cities around the Bay Area, plus a camp on Oahu, Hawaii. In addition to campers from throughout the U.S., the team has hosted youth from six different continents - Africa, Asia, Australia, Europe, North America and South America. A handful of Warriors Basketball Camp alumni have gone on to play professionally both in the NBA and overseas. Last year marked a milestone for Warriors Basketball Camp when Juan Toscano-Anderson joined the team, making him the first former camper to play for the Golden State Warriors.

This past summer, the academy hosted nine week-long virtual basketball camps, as well as virtual private training sessions. The summer virtual camps featured 75-minute workouts daily that focused on individual skill development, the importance of fundamentals, and the development of a healthy team attitude for boys and girls, ages 7-15, of all skill levels and abilities. All registrants received an at-home kit that included a camp jersey, face mask, water bottle, cones and more. Each session featured an appearance by a current or former Warriors player or coach. The guest appearances were made by Marquese Chriss, Mychal Mulder, Damion Lee, Mike Brown, Jarron Collins, Ron Adams and Zaza Pachulia.

In addition, Warriors Basketball Academy provided virtual private training opportunities for boys and girls, ages 9-17, in which they received a customized workout plan designed to fit their goals and schedule. In all, the virtual programs saw over 500 participants from 26 states and six different countries.

The Junior Warriors Basketball League offers a unique basketball experience for Bay Area youth, ages 5-17. Through partnerships with local youth agencies, the Warriors aim to enhance existing leagues by providing special benefits for all participants, including reversible jerseys and shorts, headbands, certificates of participation and tickets offered at a savings for Warriors home games. The league also offers a Coaches Clinic, featuring the Warriors coaching staff, for all volunteer coaches participating in the program. The season is capped off with the Junior Warriors Classic played on the Warriors home floor prior to a late season game. Over 200,000 Bay Area youth have been able to participate in the Junior Warriors Basketball League since its inception in 2000. Last season over 10,000 youth participated in the program.

The future of Warriors Basketball Academy programming will include Shoot 360, the newly installed performance technology that will allow participants the ability to test, train and track every component of their workout. Shooting cages will allow participants to get instant performance analytics in real time via live shot charts showing shot arc, shot depth and left/right differential, while the skill cages will provide interactive ball-handling. Passing simulators will engage participants by tracking and grading their performance. To compliment the technology, Warriors Basketball Academy staff will engage with and teach participants through physically-distanced coaching. Warriors Basketball Academy is the first youth basketball program in the NBA to feature Shoot 360 technology.

Moving forward, the Academy plans to continue hosting safe, physically-distanced workouts and clinics and will look forward to returning to larger in-person camps when the county and state deem it safe to do so.

More information can be found online at www.gswacademy.com.
